

Portfolio Strategies-Brandes Institute Intern

Company Description

Brandes Investment Partners is a leading investment advisory firm, managing assets for clients worldwide. Since our inception in 1974, we have applied the value investing approach to security selection and we were among the first investment firms to bring a global perspective to value investing. With over $100 billion under management and over 500 employees worldwide, we manage the firm with the long term in mind--we invest significantly in our business and in our people. We work hard to maintain a progressive culture which rewards teamwork and encourages a work-life balance. We have combined winning people, innovative technology and a value investment philosophy to be a leader in investment management. We value fresh thinkers who wish to contribute in a collaborative, energized environment.

Job Qualifications

Completion of first year of an MBA program or other post-graduate program: CFA preferred and some investment management experience with a firm knowledge of accounting and finance. Familiarity with the concepts and applications of attribution and style analysis, familiarity of statistical formulas, strong Microsoft Excel skills, and FactSet experience a plus.

Job Description

Support the Brandes Institute and Portfolio Strategies Departments by compiling data and conducting analysis for global markets and behavioral finance research and new product development projects. Also may be asked to report findings to the Brandes Institute Advisory Board.
